Waterford Sports Partnership has compiled this directory as a source of information for those wishing to make contact with organisers of Sports Camps around Waterford. Inclusion in this directory is not an indicator of the quality or value of the camp. All camps listed are independently run and all related queries should be directed to the camp contact as listed.

Extract from The Code of Ethics & Good Practice for Children's Sport in Ireland (Parents Guide)

The Irish Sports Council and the Sports Council for Northern Ireland developed the Code of Ethics & Good Practice For Children's Sport in Ireland to ensure a fun and safe environment for children. While "The Code" is primarily aimed at the sports club environment, the guidelines below may also be useful for parents to apply to other sporting activities their children participate in.

Sport and Young People

Leaders become involved in sport for young people for a variety of different reasons, from a variety of sporting backgrounds and take on varying roles within clubs and organisations. Yet, irrespective of the role or responsibility, all leaders share a common goal in their commitment for sport for young people.

We want sport to be fun and we want to ensure that no matter what sport young people are involved in, it takes place in the spirit of 'fair play'.

Fair play is the guiding principle of The Code of Ethics & Good Practice for Children's Sport in Ireland which is designed to provide guidance for those working with young people in sport. It outlines for sports organisations the types of issues that need to be discussed and addressed to provide the safest and most enjoyable environment for young people.

Parents/Guardians have the primary responsibility for the care and welfare of young people. As such there are a number of steps you can take to ensure a fun and safe sporting environment for children.

1. Examine the role you can play to enhance the quality of your child's involvement in sport.

Encourage your child to:

- Put in their best effort – have a go
- Improve their skills
- Make friends
- Play by the rules
- Appreciate/accept everyone in the group, regardless of ability, race, religion, gender etc.
- Accept winning and losing as part of the game

2. Examine your behaviour and involvement in your child's sport. You should:

- Be a role model - your child will learn best by example
- Show appreciation of, and respect towards, sports officials and their decisions
- Encourage children to play within the rules
- Behave responsibly on the sidelines and in all interactions involving children
- Focus on the child's efforts rather than on performance
- Focus on the fun and participation of the child in the activity
- Know the names and qualifications of the leader
- Liaise with the sports leaders in relation to the times, locations etc, of training sessions

Strike a Balance

We need to keep in mind the reasons why young people want to take part in sport.

They want to learn new skills, make new friends, be part of a group, to win and be successful, experience excitement, challenges and action. They need input and guidance by adults to achieve these aims but parents need to ensure that young people's fun remains the central focus. In providing for the needs of young people in sport parents should not:

- Put undue pressure on the child to please or perform well
- Ridicule or yell at a child for making a mistake or losing a game
- Treat the club as a child-minding service
- Take a child's safety for granted. Never ignore or dismiss genuine complaints or concerns expressed by a child, which relate to his/her involvement in sport.

3. The Sports Leader is the other important influence on the child's enjoyment of sport. It is important that we support the leader where possible. Parents should take note of the following aspects of the leader's approach:

- The emphasis on fun as well as competition
- The opportunities for children to make friends and for everyone to be included
- The opportunities to improve skills
- The use of modified games or equipment, where possible

Communicate often with the leaders even though you may not be in a position to attend every session.

Show an interest in their efforts to make your child's involvement in sport safe and enjoyable.

Show that you consider their role important - they are not baby-sitters.

A copy of the "Code of Ethics and Good Practice for Children's Sport" can be downloaded from the Irish Sports Council Website: www.irishsportsCouncil.ie

Parents in the Sports Summer Camp environment may wish to consider the above guidelines.
